TOLD IN COURT.

SIR WM. GORDON-CUMMINGS' LIBEL SUIT

an Important Witness - The Court-Room Thronged With the Nobility and Aristocracy of the British Capital-At-court entrance are such as to require an exextra force of policemen, and even those who have cards of admission have found it dim-cult to find their way. Not since the Tich-borne trial has such a number of aristocratic sole prevalence of good humor among the lower classes, who are waiting for and watching the "Tant-ræ-ra" crowd. They chuckle over the situation as a grand expose of the misdoings of the nobility and something that, therefore, should bring joy to the people. There is not the deep intense feeling that showed itself at the time of the Poll Mail Gazette exposures. The people seem to see an element of satire in this affair, and they enjoy the gathered that memorable night at tranby Croft, and in one or two instances clubs were used on "Toms" who were too anxious to peep. Sir William Gordon Cumming made no effort to conceal himself, and it was easy enough to see that sympathy was on his side. He is a manly-looking fellow, every finch the Scotch nobleman of ancient lineage, and one of the last that would be suspected of sharp practice at cards. At this hour it is understood that the Prince of Wales and Gen. William Gordon Cumming made no effort to conceal himself, and it was easy enough to see that sympathy was on his side. He is a manly-looking fellow, every finch the Scotch nobleman of ancient lineage, and one of the last that would be suspected of sharp practice at cards. At this hour it is understood that the Prince of Wales will be called as a witness, but that he will probably be allowed himself to be overpresuaded by this friends, Gen. Williams and Lord Coventy, and in the hope of avoiding a scandal, which those friends seemed to dread.

Sir William Gordon-Cumming is all-feward also described the condition under which the prince of Wales and Gen. Williams in the wild that the prosecution would put the prince of Wales and Gen. Williams in the wild that the prosecution would put the prince of Wales and Gen. Williams in the wild that the prosecution would put the prince of Wales and Gen. Williams in the wild provide that the prosecution would put the prince of Wales and Gen. Williams in the wild provide that the prosecution would ensure the prince of Wales and Gen. Williams in the wild provide and they had seen no the case. Indeed, the odds against Sir William are so great that the very fact has caused a public feeling in his favor.

IN THE COURT. Long before the hour (ii a. m.) fixed for the earing of this important case, the court com was filled with crowds of fashionable people who had been lucky shough to obtain one of the much coveted tickets, granting them the right to be present at the long ex-pected bactarat revelations. Lord Coleridge, in disposing of the seats in the court room had

He gave orders that admission to the couri was to be by special tickets only, and he an-nounced that he would be able to accommo-date only a few of the most distinguished applicants with seats beside him on the bench reserving the main body of the court for members of the bar, witnesses, jurymen, and about thirty-five newspaper representatives. The result was that crowds of angry, disappointed people were to be seen outside the court mingling with the usual crowds of sight-seers who naturally gather at the scene of all important trials. The lat-ter waited patiently, laughing and jesting, playing practical jokes, guying everybody guyable and enjoying the warm sunshine

A BRILLIANT ASSEMBLAGE.
Inside the court-room resembled the scene of some highly fashionable reception rather than a grim law court where an important case was to be brought to trial. Women, strange to say, predominated in the audience and the display made of spring and summer costumes and the latest in "pancake" hats was positively bewildering. In the long galleries, ladies charmingly brilliant in triavailable space. Others more favored and equally bewitchingly dressed occupied re-served seats on the bench. All the ladies were talking in an animated manner and fashing their lifted lorgneties here and there, studying out the identity of everybody fiashing their lifted lorgnettes here and there, studying out the identity of everybody of note present and criticising the most conspicuous costumes in the most lively manner. One and all, ladies and gentlemen, were most eager for the "show," for such to them it seemed to be, to begin in real earnest. The first tremor of excitement was caused by the arrival in the court-room of Sir Wm. Gordon Cumming, the plaintiff, accompanied by his counsel, Solicitor-General Clarke and Mr. Gill. Opposed to these legal lights are the Attorney-General, Sir Richard Webster, Sir Charles Russell, Mr. Asquith, Q. C., and Mr. Arthur Russell, Mr. Asquith, Q. C., and Mr. Arthur Russell, Mr. Asquith, Q. C., and Mrs. Arthur Russell, who arrived promptly and almost at the same time as Sir William Gordon Cumming, accompanied by the defendants, Mr. and Mrs. Lycett Green, Mr. and Mrs. Arther Wilson and Mrs. Berkeley Lovett. The plaintiff was cool and calm, but apparently not in the best of humor. He stared coldly, almost defantly at his enemies and then gianced haughtify, curiously around the court-room through the oid-fashioned windows into which the sun streamed gaily, lighting up the generally dull interior and showing up pleasantly the ravishing tollettes of the ladies. The legal lights were evidently conscious of the conspicuous position in which they were placed, and seemed rather to enjoy the fusiliade of giances from bright female eyes to which they were exposed until the Prince of Wales made his appearance.

Concerd all, laddes and gentlemen, were most care for the book to be fill in the care for the book to be fill in the care for the care he law. The murmur of suppressed appro-bation which followed this remark showed that the heir apparent to the throne of En-gland has gained, certainly not lost, popu-larity by his attendance at court like an every-day subject when he could easily have escaped attendance on the plea of illness and have had his testimony taken by a commis-sion.

Solicitor General Clarke concluded his opening remarks with a passionate appeal on behalf of his client. Sir William Gordon-Cummings' had testified that in the game of baccarat to which reference was had, the Prince of Wales Indacted as banker and Gen. Williams as croupler. On the first evening of play his attention had not been called to any complaint of his conduct in the game. On the placing the matter entirely in the hands of Gen. Williams and Lord Coventry. After dinner on the day of this interview witness again denied the truth of the charge to the Prince of Wales, saying to him:

"Your Highness will see what a terrible thing is this affair to me, who have been at-tempting for twenty years to lead the life of an officer and a gentleman." To this the "What can you do? There are five ac-

COVINGTON, Ry., June 1.—A story as told by Mollie Asheroft has set the neighborhood wild and her father has escaped lynching only by fleeing. The family lives on Dry Creek, back among the hills. She said there was a mortgage on their small farm, and that she and her mother were both working hard endeavoring to lift their financial load. She was working at a neighboring house and Saturday morning went over to see her mother. When she reached the little pathway she met her father, who was under the influence of liquor, and he warned her not to enter the house, as he had whipped her mother and intended to "finish" her. He also threatened to whip the daughter if she went near the to whip the daughter if she went near the dwelling. ceeded in getting into the house by raising a rear window. She went into the front room and there found her mother chalued to the floor and unable to move a limb. She was covered with blood and almost unconscious. Her head had been beaten, her face was bruised, and in her struggles the chains had cut into her flesh. Mollie went to the homes of several neighbors and they hastened to her assistance. It was learned that Ashcroft and his wife had quarreled about a sum of money. Mrs. Ashcroft wanted to apply the money to the payment of the mortgage. Ashcroft insisted on paying it for an old horse. She refused, and he picked up a club and commenced to beat her. He knocked her down, and while she was in an insensible condition dragged her into the house and took two large chains and chained her to the floor, gagging her to prevent any outcry. This suggestion was, of course, prompted by a feeling of sarcasm.

Dr. Cave's sermon before the students of the State University was the subject of much comment at the ministers' meeting to-day, and the management of that institution came in for some severe criticism.

Ber. Dr. Williams, editor of the Centraligaptist, the organ of the Baptist Church of this State, read the newspaper accounts of the sermon and expressed the opinion that the University management had left itself open to criticism by its action in asking Dr. Cave to deliver the sermon before the graduates. "If the sentiments expressed by Dr. Cave are those of the University people it's time for the Christian people of Missouri to look out. That institution is supported by the people of the State and they certainly have a right to say something in the premises. If the University managers want infidelity preached to the students I think there is an abundance of need for a protest."

A FRESSYTERIAN VIEW.

Bev. Dr. Brank, pastor of the Central Prosbyterian Charch, said he had not given the matter enough attention to warrant any extended expression of opinion, but feit warranted in saying he was surprised at the action of the management in selecting a minister of such extreme views as Dr. Cave to deliver the sermon to the students and graduates. "If Dr. Cave is reported correctly," he said, "I don't wonder that his remarks created a furor at Columbia yesterday. Christian people generally will disapprove of the sentiments expressed by the minister and may go further and criticise the management of the institution for selecting Dr. Cave to deliver the sermon."

Miss Saupe, His Second Wife, Belonged to Well-Known and Much-Respected Family-Inquest on Effic Baucom-A Warrant Against a 13-Year-Old Boy for

Mr. J. A. Perkins, Sheriff of Shelby County, Tenn., of which county Memphis is the capi-tal seat, arrived in St. Louis this morning, and delivered to Chief Harrigan at the Four Courts credentials, on the strength of which he demanded the person of William O. Lips, comb. To-night he will leave with his pris-comb. To-night he will leave with his prisoner for home.

Lipscomb is the suave telegraph operator arrested by Detectives Viehle and Ziegler at the Western Union office Saturday afternoon. To-day Sheriff Perkins exhibited an indictment returned by the Sheiby County Grand-jury charging him with bigamy. The story of the offense, together with the prisoner's statement admitting his guilt, was told in yesterday's Post-Dispatch. In 1889 Lipscomb eloped with and married 17-year-old Loretta Kennedy at whose mother's house in New Orleans he had boarded about three months. A year later the two seperated after living in New Orleans, Chicago and Savannah. Sixteen months ago Lipscomb went to Memphis and met Miss Eds Saupe, a 20-year-old girl of excellent address. Early in May the two were married at the residence of the girl's uncle in Memphis. They lived together three days at Greenville, Miss., where Lipscomb was employed as manager of the Western Union Telegraph office. The girl's brother at Memphis then learned of the former marriage and took his sister away. Lipscomb fied Greenville, leaving his accounts, so it is alleged, in bad shape. He had been employed in the office of the Western Union at St. Louis for two weeks when detected.

Sheriff Perkins says public indignation against the prisoner is at fever heat in Memphis. He also says that Miss Saupe, now fully satisfied of the perfidy of her deceiver, will assist her brothers and nuclei a prossecutive Linscomb to the average. her deceiver, will assist her brothers and uncle in prosecuting Lipscomb to the extent of a very severe law. The Saupe family secured the indictment against Lipscomb and will push the ease to the bitter end. The prisoner's legal wife, nee Miss Kennedy, who is now with her mother, at 183 Julia street, New Orleans, will also take an active part in the prosecution on account of the alleged sianderous stories affecting her reputation for both virtue and honesty, which her husband has so assiduously circulated. Lipscomb to-day announced that he would go to Memphis without waiting for requisition papers. He made a strong appeal to Sheriff Perkins to go uncuffed, but the careful officer refused to comply with this request, preferring to take no chances.

Annie Baker Convicted.

Circuit Attorney Clover this morning re ceived a communication from his assistant Mr. Orrick C. The charge was one of mayhem, and the case was one of peculiar Interest. On the afternoon of July 25 last the defendant threw a quantity of concentrated lye into the face of Walter A. J. Kelly, a 13-year-old boy living with his parents at 411 Anna street. The woman was the legal wife of a Chinaman named Tu Lasso to whom she had been married at Great Bend, Ind., three years before. On the afternoon in question she was engaged in scrubbing the floor of her husband's laundry on South Broadway when Walter Kelly and several of his companions entered the yard several of his companions entered the yard in the rear of the house. The woman at once seized the bucket containing a strong solution of lye and dashed it full into the lad's face. Since that day the boy's sight has been ding away. His parents sec services of competent experts from the first, but to no avail. To-day he is totally blind. The warrant first sworn out against the woman charged her with assault to do great bodily harm, on which complaint she was held over to the Grand-jury. Before this body covered it became evident that the body convened it became evident that the boy would lose his sight and the indictment returned was under the mayhem statute. Affidavits charging prejudice on the part of the people of St. Louis were submitted by the attorneys for the defense, on the strength of which a change of venue was taken, the case being sent to Franklin County. Saturday the evidence was submitted, Judge Hersel presiding, Attorneys Orrick C. Bishop and Thomas B. Harvey appearing for the State and Attorney Frank Merriman for the defense. The sightless victim made a strong impression on the jurors as he groped his way to and from the witness stand. The woman admitted the assault, but claimed that she had been tormented by the groped his way to and from the witness stand. The woman admitted the assault, but claimed that she had been tormented by the boys for so long that she lost her temper and acted before she thought. She insisted, however, that she believed that she was throwing clear water on the lad. The State established that the boy had in no way an-noyed the woman and the jury took decided action. A motion for a new trial was filed.

Robbed While Waiting for a Car. A warrant for robbery in the first degre was sworn out at the Four Courts this morning against John Haley. The complainan Cain stated that about 1:80 o'clock Sunday ning he was waiting for a car at the co held him by the neck while his confederates took from him a silver watch and chain and $7$ in money. Three of the men then ran away, but Cain clung to Haley, the robber resisting furiously and beating him about the head and face. Finally another man appeared on the scene and stated that he was a private watchman and would take the prisoner in charge. Before going half a block, however, the supposed watchman released the prisoner who dashed up an alley. Cain gave chase, and by his shouts attracted the attention of Officer Deisner of the Fourth District, who captured the fugitive after a hard run. The other robbers are known but have not yet been taken.

This was overruled. An appeal to the Su-preme Court will undoubtedly be taken.

Inquest on Effic Baucom.

Deputy Coroner Meade to-day held an inquest in the case of the girl Effic Baucom, who was shot in the furnished-room house at 1006 Pine street about 7 o'clock last Saturday night. A verdict holding William S. Lay responsible for her death was returned, the prisoner having made a statement admitting the killing in substantially the same language he used Saturday night immediately after his arrest as reported in the Sunhar Post-Dusparch, The uncle of the murdered girl, Mr. John F. Breden, arrived yesterday from Old Orchard, Mo., and identified the remains. He stated that his niece was but a little more than 15 years of age at the time she ran away from her home near Woodburn, Ill., about six months ago, and announced that he would take steps to prosecute those who had Inquest on Effic Baucom.

Officers Viehle and Ziegler arrested Ben Ludwig last night and locked him up at the Ludwig last night and locked him up at the Four Courts. This morning a warrant was sworn out charging; the prisoner with grand larceny. It is alleged that on the evening of Aug. 7, 1890, Ludwig went into the second hand store kept by Fred Wittick at No. 8 North Leves and asked to be shown a watch. He was handed a timeplece worth 35 with which he ran from the shop and made good his escape. He left the city at that time and only recently returned. Wittick has positively identified the man.

lies, for lack of funds to give him burial, the cold, lifeless body of a little 7-year-old boy. A small pine coffin of the plainest and cheapest kind, painted white, encases the remains. Tommy Lipps is the child's name, and the story is a sad one. His mother is a widow and has been for six years past. She had been left with a brood of little ones to provide for, none of them being old enough to be of any assistance to her. The mother supported them by doing washing. Deaths have occurred in her flock before, and only two years ago she lost two twins together, but she has always managed to bury the children without outside assistance. This death, however, came at a very unfavorable time. A week ago last Saturday little Tommy and some other children were playing in a wagon outside silvery stable on Ninth and Walnut streets, and in some manner he fell out and was hurt. Tommy staggered home, and lies, for lack of funds to give him burial, the streets, and in some manner he fell out and was hurt. Tommy staggered home, and next day complained of being sick, and his mother took him to the City Dispensary. There was a bump on his forehead where the little fellow had fallen, but the physician examined his throat, which was swollen. He suspected it was a case of diphtheria, which had not, as yet, developed. Telling the mother to bring the boy around again the next day, the doctor dismissed them. Monday and Tuesday, however, the mother claims that owing to the rain and other causes she could not take her child to mother claims that owing to the rain and other causes she could not take her child to the dispensary, and Wednesday morning he was so bad that she sent him to the City Hospital, where he died early Friday morning of diphtheria, according to the hospital physicians, but the mother insists that it was the fall which caused the boy's death. There was not a penny in the house with which to bury the little fellow, but the mother did not want to have him fill a pauper's grave, so she had his body brought home. [Mrs. Lipps also feared that if the remains were left at the hospital, they would be taken to some medical college and be cut up as a subject. She could not bear the idea of her child's body being subjected to this, and the mother endeavored to raise enough money among her neighbors to bury him. She collected $15 Friday and Saturday out of the $22 which the funeral will cost. She had the little fellow embalmed and laid out and hoped to get enough more yesterday to bury him this morning. The unfortunate woman is subject to epilepsy, however, and yesterday was taken down and could not yenture out in the street. She did not go out to-day either, but hopes to secure the needed money by to-morrow. In the meantime the little fellow's body lays in the coffin and there it will continue to remain until the mother can collect enough to pay the funeral charges. ther causes she could not take her child to Postmaster Harlow suspended three letter carriers to-day for attempted violation of the postal regulations and referred their cases to the Department for action.

The men suspended were H. M. Day, J. T. Kelly and Samuel H, Morton. The trouble ows out of an effort on the part of some of the carriers to get up an excursion to raise money for their association, a thing which is forbidden by the regulations. which is forbidden by the regulations. Nothing was said to the Postmaster about it, but on the 3d of May he saw an announcement in the papers that two weeks later an excursion would be given for the benefit of the Letter Carriers' Benevolent Association, the reason for it being that the treasury was depleted and the money was needed. This was followed by a card from some of the carriers, stating that the association had $2,000 in the treasury and that was enough to meet all the calls upon it. The excursion was not given because of a quarrel which arose over the disposition of the money realized. There is a national association of letter carriers and alsa a seprate local association. The members of the former were the ones who got up the excursion assisted by the latter and when the question was raised whether the profits should be turned into the national or local treasury a row resulted which led tojthe abandonment of the excursion. But it did not end there.

Maj, Harlow began to inquire into it.

FORBIDDEN BY POSTAL REGULATIONS.
Some years ago it was a custom among the letter-carriers to hand into houses printed addresses, a poem generally, on Christmas or New Year's Day, to remind the people that carriers worked on Christmas while others played, and a little recognition of their services would not offend them. The custom was general throughout the country and had been in existence ever since the carrier service had been established, but the department came to the conclusion that such a custom amounted simply to levying a tax, since many people would give because they were afraid a refusal would result in delayed deliveries of their mail, and others gave because they thought the gift would be the means of hurrying up their letters, so the following paragraph was added to sec. 641 of the postal regulations:

ulations:

They (the carriers) are also forbidden to solicit, in person or through others, contributions of money, giffs or presents; to issue addresses, complimentary of the person of the person of the person intended or calculated to induce the person in the person of the person

SUSPENDED PENDING INVESTIGATION. SUSPENDED PENDING INVESTIGATION.

Maj. Harlow found that the three carriers mentioned were the leaders in the excursion scheme, and that while no tickets had been sold preparations had been made for their sale. And then, too, the carriers had been rather independent of the post-office authorities. When it was suggested that Maj, Harlow might not permit the excursion there were some who were inclined to say that it didn't make any difference whether he did or not. A decided spirit of insubordination was manifested, and Maj. Harlow nation was manifested, and Maj. Harlow concluded to refer the matter to Washington. The First Assistant Postmaster-General re-plied asking that the case be investigated, and it was placed in the hands of Special Examiner Brown, who received from Day, Kelly and Morton affidavits to the effect that they had gotten up the excursion and intended to raise funds by the sale of tickets. The papers were sent on to Washington and in accordance with the custom in cases where Government employes are under investiga-tion for violations or attempted violations of the regulations these three were suspended.

The Seven Wise Men of the East Have Lost

The secret society, composed of colored people which meets in the hall at the north-east corner of Twelfth and Carr, is undergoing a siege of internal dissensions which are likely to leave the small organization dismembered. Charges of conduct unbecoming wise men, especially when coming from the East, are preferred against Henry Adams and Clay Gilmore, two prominent members of the organization, to whom has been entrusted the care of the exceedingly mysterious paraphenalia which is used in treating candidates who seek admission into the order with such a high-sounding title. The matter was brought to public notice this morning by James Brown Franklin, Vice-Chancellor and head high snake ing a siege of internal dissensions which are

This is the day of the election for three circuit judges in the Third District. In East St. Louis a very light vote will be polled. Reports from Belleville and other places in St. Clair County are to the effect that few ballots are being cast. The Democratic ticket is the only one in the field. Judge Wall of Duquoin, Judge Burroughs of Edwardsville and A. S. Wildeman are the candidates.

GENERAL VIEW FROM TOWER GROVE AVE.

It will be observed from this third view of the property to be sold that the buyers are massing upon the grounds from three different directions.

In the foreground people are getting off the Tower Grove Park electric line, a branch of the Missouri street railway system, running down Market street to Fourth. From this point of observation a general view of the whole field, comprising twenty-two city blocks, may be had.

The street grades have been established and most of the ground cut down to the level, or is high enough above grade to admit of pretty terraced fronts. Several of the streets have been sewered under the direction of the Board of Public Improvements and also provided with city water. Granitoid walks have been put down on both the east and west ends of the plat and near Tower Grove avenue eighteen two-story brick dwellings have been built and several of them sold to their present occupants.

To the right of the picture may be seen early arrivals by way of the Fourth street cable line, coming from the cars which turn south on Grand avenue at the corner of Lafayette.

At the upper left hand corner in the distance, at the east line of the plat to be sold, may be seen the faint outlines of the Grand Avenue Suspension Bridge. A crowd is seen coming from that direction also, some of them having come by the Chouteau avenue branch of the Lindell electric street railway system. In the extreme right of the illustration there are two long passenger trains, one of them on the Missouri Pacific and the other on the 'Frisco track, These two early through trains from the West and Southwest are bringing buyers from Topeka, Atchison, St. Joe, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Sedalia, Springfield and near-by suburban Missouri towns. Both the trains stopped at Tower Grove Station, where some of the passegers got off to be in at the first bidding. Others aboard the trains are going on into the city to breakfast at the Southern and Lindell Hotels, where they will meet the Illinois delegation from their State capital town, Chicago, Alton, Carlisle, Peoria, Quincy, Belleville and East St. Louis. When these representatives of the two States have met and organized their purchasing syndicates they will take one of the three rapid transit lines and ride direct to the auction. They may be a little late getting there, but that will be all the better for home buyers, for the indications now are that all the lots will be sold, and on the 3d of June at that. An intention to wait until the second day of the sale may result in disappointment and great loss to prospective purchasers as it is likely that all the ground will be disposed off on the first day.

Don't let it be said when all this ground has gone up to an average of $150 a foot front ten years from now that you failed to attend the greatest auction in the history of St. Louis, a city which bids fair by that time to have a population of one million souls.

AMENDING THE CHARTER.

The charter amendment to be adopted or rejected by the voters of St. Louis at a special election Tuesday, June 9, should receive the consideration its importance deserves and call out an intelligent vote from every tax-payer in the city.

It proposes a sinking-fund arrangement for which the claim is made that it will pay off the present bonded debt of the city in thirty-seven years, without increasing the tax now levied for the payment of interest. The time has come when this tax yields more than is required for the payment of interest, and when, by charter amendment continuing the rate and appropriating the excess to the creation of a sinking fund for redemption purposes, the extinction of the debt will be another by Cahenaly, was written in St. Louis amply provided for in the easiest possible $400. visions of the proposed amendment that it will come up to the Comptroller's expectations, the business men and the tax-payers should certainly manifest enough public spirit to pay him the compliment of voting for it. As the Municipal Assembly has indorsed it, there will be no organized opposition. But its adoption by a slim vote will be an unwelcome indication that only a small proportion of our voters take enough interest in the city's financial affairs to care how the most important fiscal questions submitted to them are decided.

THE revelations in the Bardsley case give a sickening view of political ring corruption in the city of Philadelphia and the State of Pennsylvania. Ex-City Treasurer BARDSLEY has confessed to having used State funds for his profit in a way that involved the violation of the law and his oath of office; the State Auditor is proved to have disregarded the law in an outrageous manner; the Federal Bank Examiner, although the bank was insolvent three years ago, did not pronounce it so, and when he declared it insolvent the announcement was held back for nearly two months; many bank, officials of Philadelphia, according to BARDSLEY's confession, violated the law by paying interest to him upon deposits of public money. These revelations are shocking, but they merely furnish the econd chapter of those which blackened the reputation of the Quay gang. The evidence in the Quay case proved the existence of a monstrous ring of political bosses and bankers, and the Bardsley case shows how wide and deep the sink-hole of corruption in Pennsylvania is.

"The Deutsche-Amerikanischen Priesterverein, of which I am the head, was organized only four years ago," said Father Muehlsepen, "and the sole and only cause for its organization was to provide for, arrange and properly conduct the annual German Catholic Congress, which itself originated also first four years ago, the first congress being held in Chicago and the fourth last spring in Pittsburg. There has never been any element of secrecy in the meetings of this society, and surely if such a paper had originated in its membership or at its councils the fact would have been generally known. Many bishops and abbots have taken part in our meetings, and, while the meetings are, of course confined exclusively to the ciergy, they are open to the clergy of all nationalities. The priests' society in reality succeeded and took the place of the Central Vorein of German Catholic Laymen, and its Central Committee has no other business but that of attending to the detail of the annual

the conflict is said to have occurred.

"HINKS IT IS MISUNDERSTOOD.

"I cannot believe, anyway, that the paper known as the Lucerne petition has been correctly reported to this country, as some features of it are absurd. I don't think that it has been asked that a pro rata appointment of bishops be made according to the number of each nationality, nor that the petition provides for the permanent teaching of the immigrant nationalities after the manner of their mother country. But I approve most strongly of the plan of having priests of the same nationality accompany immigrants they found themselves almost cut off from their religion and their religious duties, owing to their ignorance of the manners and customs of the people amongst whom they had settled. Of course, you will understand that this cause of complaint dies away in time as the immigrants become Americanized, but in the meantime I surely think they ought to have the privilege of a priest of their own nationality placed in their midst. It is asking but little of the church, and it shows no desire or intention of remaining un-American.

cans, but in addition to those studies they are given the privilege of learning the language which will chable them to talk freely with their own parents and to appreciate and understand the manners and customs of the Fatherland from which their parents come. As to the charge that continuing this study of the German language is intended to provide for the perpetuation and supply of the German press and of other business carried on in the German language, it is too ridiculous to deserve any reply. It is intended to avert that almost complete separation of children from parents, which would be the case where the children were prohibited from learning their parents' mother tongue.

"It cannot understand what reason Father Phelan can have for his attack upon the German Priests' Society of this city, but I have no hesitation in pronouncing the charge he makes against it in connection with the 'Lucerne petition' as totally untrue.

"It has taken no part in such a movement. It knows nothing about it beyond what has been published, and does not owe its existence to any anti-American spirit or any struggle for authority with the American clergy. All those charges are false and do the society a great injustice. Its only reason for existence is the perpetuation of the annual German Catholic Congress, and its actions are open to the world."

The Frisco case, or the application of stockholders for an injunction to prevent the consolidation of the Frisco and Atchison Railroads, was resumed in the United States Circuit Court before Judge Thayer this morning, Messrs. Henry Hitchcock and Eaton of Boston representing the stockholders and Messrs. Ed Kenna and Geo. Peck representing the Atchison and Frisco roads and their officers. Mr. Hitchcock took up all of last Friday presenting evidence to the court to show that prior to the consolidation of the Atchison & Frisco, which has not yet been completed, there had been severe competition between the roads, and that the consolidation put a stop to it. The stockholders and bondholders of the Frisco road are and have been receiving a high rate of interest on their investments, and the manipulators of the finances of the combined roads propose to make a new issue of bonds and stocks to take the place of the old and the consolidation making the roads or system of roads a much more secure property; the rate of interest on these bonds and stocks will be decreased. This is one reason why the stockholders object and they also protest against the incurring of further indebtedness. The officers contemplate to extend the road. To show cause why the consolidation should not be permitted, and that it is against the laws of this State and Kansas, Mr. Hitchcock for the stockholders read selections from the statutes of Missouri and Kansas, laws of this State and Kansas, Mr. Hitchcock for the stockholders read selections from the statutes of Missouri and Kansas, which forbids the combination of two corporations when such consolidation will destroy competition and tend to raise prices oo cripple trade as to limiting the supply of a comodity. ### LOS ANGELES' BIG BLAZE.

Los ANGELES, Cal., June 1 .- One of the Angeles occurred yesterday. The fire originated in the Norton block, a four-story frame partment building, at the corner of Seventh and Hill streets, and in less than half an hour the block was entirely destroyed. The flames then swept east on Seventh street, totally destroying a pwo-story frame dwelling and the Church of the Trinity, a handsome edi-fice. Further progress of the flames was checked at this point by a vacant lot. The total loss is more than $100,000, on which there is comparatively little insurance.

Wolff is very indignant at the Police Department and Coroner Irwin for refusing to assist him in ferreting out a mysterious crime which he is certain was committed in his neighborhood last Saturday night. The story is an interesting one and may be best told in Mr. Wolff's own words as he related it to a Post-Disparch reporter no doubt in my mind that the body of a dead nigger will be found in there when the grave is opened. I reported the matter to the Folice Department and they put me on by saying that there was nothing for them to investigate and would do nothing until I opened the grave and established that there was a body buried there. That's just the way the d—d police always do when you go to them. I told them that I thought a nigger had been killed in the neighborhood and buried there, and I think so yet. They have balls and brawls every Saturday night in the vicinity and this man might have been killed after one of these gatherings last Saturday after one of these gatherings last Saturday after one of these gatherings last saturday night and no one know it but the two or three niggers in the fight.

"What did I do, then? Why, I went to the Coroner's office, and, would you believe it, the Coroner told me it was not a case for him to investigate until the police had investigated and reported on it. WOULD LET IT BOT FIRST.

"He wanted me to dig up the body myself and then report the result, and I told him that it could lie there 400 years before I would dig up the bones. I am glad the press has taken hold of it, as the mystery ought to be cleared up and the incompetency of the Cor oner and Police Department shown up.

oner and Police Department shown up.

''And another thing, one of Mr. Munson's children found a bloody cloth at the grave, which is further evidence that a crime has been committed, but whether one has been or not, the fact remains that a grave has been dug in my front yard and without my authority. Did anything of the kind ever happen before in that neighborhood? No, not that I ever heard of. We bury dogs out there some times, and I've done it myself, but not in my yard in front of my house."

Mr. Wolff has had no trouble with any of the colored people in that part of the city Mr. Wolf has had no trouble with any of the colored people in that part of the city and scouts the idea that the digging of this grave was a piece of spite work or that it was done as a practical joke by some of his friends. The grave is only a few feet from the front of the yard and is near the walk leading from the front gate up to the residence, which stands 600 feet back from the street, Marcus avenue. The yard would make a respectable-sized farm in

WHAT MR. MUNSON SAW.

Mr. John W. Munson was seen later and asked to tell what he had seen in Mr. Wolff's front yard yesterday. The gentleman is not so sanguine as Mr. Wolff is as to the connection of a crime with the digging of a grave, but he says that it at least looks very suspicious and should be investigated. Mr. Munson was on his way to church with his children about 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning when he noticed two negroes filling up what looked to him to be a grave in Mr. Wolff's yard not far from the sidewalk. They both had shovels and were shoveling newly-dug dirt in as fast as they could and didn't seem to notice Mr. Munson and the children. Mr. Munson was filled with church thoughts at the time and the grave-scene soon faded from his mind, not to come up again until later in the day. One of his up again until later in the day. One of his children was certain that a negro had been died yesterday, aged nearly 91 years. He leaves two daughters, one the wife of Senator George F. Hoar, and the other the wife of ex-Congressman W. W. Rice.

ON HIS WIFE'S GRAVE.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 1.—Fred Smith, Inspector of Customs, had an attack of neu-clined to believe that Mr. Wolff knew of the collined to be lieve that Mr. Wolff knew of the clined to be lieve that Mr. Wolff knew of the clined to believe that Mr. Wolff knew of the clined to believe that Mr. Wolff knew of the only that of a dog. Mr. Munson was still inclined to believe that Mr. Wolff knew of the digging, or, if he didn't, that it was not a very serious matter, and he did not report it to the gentleman until yesterday morning. He found Mr. Wolff in front of his yard waiting for a street car, and soon learned that he had been in total ignorance of the grave mystery. They went over to the spot together and Mr. Wolff decided at once that a crime had been committed and the victim buried there. The grave was fully six feet long, and while it was a little curved and irregular that shape might have been given it buried there. The grave was fully six feet long, and while it was a little curved and irregular that shape might have been given it purposely to mislead Mr. Wolff in the event that the grave was discovered.

BLOODY CLOTH DISCOVERED.

Mr. Munson said it was true that one of his children had discovered a bloody cloth at the grave Sunday afternoon, but what had become of it he didn't know. The grass is very high all around the spot, and the grave would not be noticed by the passer-by unless his attention were called to it.

Mr. Munson says that two colored men passed along the street about the time that he and his children did and he thinks that they might be able to give some information which would lead to the clearing up of the mystery. One of them was Henderson Ellison, or Old Uncle Hens, as he is familiarly called in the neighborhood. Uncle Hens lives on Claggett avenue, or St. Louis avenue, as the street is now called, and will be interviewed by Mr. Wolff this evening.

Mr. Munson says that one of the grave-diggers was an old man and the other one was a young man and he thinks that he would be able to identify both of them.

The police are unkind enough to volunteer the opinion that the remains of a dead cat or poodle dog will be found in the grave if it is ever opened.

purse of $10,000. Jackson will put up a forfeit as a guarantee of good faith.

It is remarkable how statements have changed concerning the condition of Corbett and Jackson at the close of their fight. The night of the battle and the next day all reports agreed that both men were exhausted when the fight was declared no contest. It was claimed that neither was capable of striking a blow. Next day in the telegraphic accounts Jackson was quoted as saying in an interview held with him immediately after the contest that his ankle had gone back on him and so had his shoulder, destroying his chances of winning; and Corbett in an interview held with him at the same time gave as an excuse that his left arm with which he did all his fighting was so sore from the pounding it had received in warding off blows that he was unable to do any execution. Both men pleaded that they did not want to take any chances, as their friends all had up money on them, and Corbett said he would not force the fighting any because it was Jackson's business as a fighter of reputation to whip him.

In the face of these statements and Corbett's excuses, telegrams are now being sent out that Jackson was practically whipped when the fight was stopped and that Corbett was saving his right arm for a knock-out blow. The people are also told that the referee, Hiram Cook, stopped the fight to save the money of the California Club officers and directors, who are alleged to have backed Jackson at heavy odds. Corbett makes similar excuses and refuses to fight before the club again. It is with the idea that he was the most likely player in the Bisonic herd. The Athletics have chosen Cincinnati's old favorite, "Pop" Corkhill, as the man to head the Quaker procession up to the pan. St. Louis gives the position to the deaf and dumb player, little Hoy. Weaver, who is really next to Pete Browning as the handsomest man playing ball, takes the initial step for Louisville. Baltimore has chosen one of the most dangerous and most brilliant men in the business. Curt Welch is that man. He could almost be called the living target, for he has been plugged by more pitched balls than any man in the profession to-day. There are few games indeed in which he does not reach his base one or more times in this manner. He can throw himself in the way of the ball in the most artistic fashion, and in season he could go into a museum and pose as a black and blue freak. He can throw up his arm as if dodging the ball and get hit at the most critical stages of the game. If Baltimore needs a man on base and Curt Welch comes to but it is even money that he will get there unless the pitcher keeps the ball so far away from him that he could not reach it with a fishing rod. Boston has a fast man to start off with—Tom Brown—who seems to improve with age. Brown is one of the fastest base-runners in the country, not a remarkably heavy hitter but a man who is very trouble-some the moment he reaches first. The last of the leaders in the Association list is Wheelcock, who has been chosen by Columbus.

In the League McPhee begins business for Cincinnati, Collins for Broeklyn, Miller for Pittsburg, Gore for New York, Ryan for Chicago, Long for Boston, McAleer for Cleveland and Hamilton, one of the prince of runners, for Philadelphia.

THE BALTINORE'S TO-MORROW.

The Orioles of Baltimore, who are flying pretty high at present in the championship race, will open a four-game championship series against the Browns to-morrow, at Sportsman's Park. There can be no denying the fact that individually and collectively the Baltimores are an excellent aggregation, whose present place in the race has been gained through meritorious work and not through any "fluke." Manager Barnie has secured first-class men in Johnson, Curt Welch, Van Haltren, who has done great work with the Ohicago League club, Gilbert, Perry Werden, Pitcher McMahon and Catcher Robinson. The men are putting up a strong, steady game and will no doubt give the Browns the hardest rub they have had this season. The batteries in to-morrow's game will probably be McMahon and Robinson for Baltimore and Stivetts and Boyle for St. Louis. Play will be called at 60 clock.

A SENSATIONAL SCANDAL

H. Gleason.

Somers, Conn., June 1.—One of the most sensational scandals that has ever agitated Tolland County has been precipitated by Rev. C. H. Gleason, for many years pastor of the Congregational Church. Mr. Gleason has brought suit against his wife, Nettle, for divorce, which will be tried in the Superior Court next week. He charges her with misconduct on several occasions with a young Boston minister. The plaintiff is on the downhill side of life, having been pastor of the Somers Church nearly thirty years. His first wife lies in the little churchyard here, and it was after her death that his troubles began. The present Mrs. Gleason was a gay young Boston girl, half the minister's ago, who spent a summer here. He wooed and won her. The junior lover has recently married a society belie at the Hub. Mrs. Gleason will contest the case stubbornly. She charges her husband with improper conduct with several of the women in his parish. Lawyers are hunting for oridence for both.

THE PITTSBURG CONVENTION.

It Will Result in Making St. Louis a Grea Cattle Resort.

This morning Henry L. Bennett of Abilene Kan., arrived in the city and registered at the Lindell, Mr. Bennett has been attending the Pittsburg Grocers' Congress, and is on his way to his home. "There is little doubt," he said in conversation with a reresentative of the Post-Disparch, "that within a year the cattle raisers and commission men will be in a great measure freed from the tyranny of the packing companies. Heretofore we have had everything against us—the cattle were low, the cattlemen were not organized, and worst of all nine-tenths of them were heavily in debt. They had to sell their cattle in order to meet payments, no matter how heavy the loss might be. The Big Four took advantage of the situation and when the annual beef gathering took place, the period covering the months of June, July and August, they reduced the price of cattle on the hoof to the lowest figures, while keeping up the price of beef. We could not sell directly to the butchers, because if they bought our meat they were certain to be the bought our meat they were certain to be the object of persecution by the dressed beef men. How effective this op-position was no one not on the inside can appreciate. If a butcher sold beef bought can appreciate. If a outcase son beer toget from a shipper, another shop was certain to be established in his immediate neighbor-hood and prices would be heavily cut. Al-though ostensibly operated by a private indi-vidual, the shop would be backed by the dressed meat men and this competition would be kept up until the butcher who would not subordinate himself to the combine was driven out of business. As the men interested in the dressed beef industry controlled the cattle yards, the cattle grower was entirely at their mercy. We now believe ourselves to be in a position to put a stop to this. The process of liquidation has gone on extensively, and the cattle growers are independent. This has been a very good year and the stock is in excellent condition. Capitalists perceive what a good condition. Capitalists perceive what a good thing the combine has and are willing to ad-vance the money for a rival establishment, to which we will contribute largely. Already it has been decided to establish a cattle yard in Pittsburg and from what I heard I regard it as certain that before this time next year St. Louis will not only have large yards, but that a beef canning plant will be well under Switzer called on him in his office and told him that Page had been found. Mr. Switzer was surprised to hear of it and asked promptly where he was and who had found him. The friend then said that a friend of his who used to be a broker in St. Louis was now located in Seattle, Wash., and about two weeks before he had met Page on the street in Seattle and stopped to speak with him; they chatted for a time and then the broker asked Page which way he was going. Page responded that he was on his way to San Francisco.

About the same time another man called on Mr. Switzer and said that he was formerly a collector for a furnishing goods store in St. Louis and knew Page McPherson by sight as well as he knew any man in St. Louis. He had just come from Dallas, Tex., and while there he had seen Page on the street. They recognized each other but simply bowed and passed on.

will make his office and close up the affairs of his copartnership as speedily as possible. The dissolution of this firm removes one of the strongest agencies from the market. It was formerly known as Kernan & Ferris. A couple of years ago Mr. Ferris retired and Mr. Kernan went into the business again with more vim than ever with the assistance of his nephew, Perry McCarthy. Having tired of the renting business, Mr. Kernan has determined to quit it altogether. After having closed up the old business, Mr. Kernan says that he will most likely take a trip to Europe and upon his return to St. Louis devote himself exclusively to the purchase and sale of real estate.
